

Find Your Next Cost-Saving Solution with Leadec Services

Leading industry technical service provider Leadec announced the launch of their new three-stage maintenance cost consultation service, aimed at improving manufacturing efficiency and helping manufacturers find cost reductions.

In recent years, cost savings from manufacturing have become increasingly difficult to find. However, through its new consultation service, Leadec aims to arm manufacturers with the understanding, information, and action plans to realize where and how additional cost savings can be made. Helping companies to further develop robust maintenance solutions and improve operational efficiencies.

Gerwin Gädigk, Executive President, Leadec Asia said: “Due to the exponential growth of industry in China, 80% of manufacturing equipment’s cost of ownership is often overlooked. Although these costs cannot be easily seen, they have a significant negative impact on operational margins and addressing these maintenance opportunities can provide additional cost savings. We at Leadec-China have decided to help manufacturers realize these savings with the introduction of the Leadec China Cost Health Check.”

The Leadec-China Cost Health Check is designed to work in three stages.

1. Leadec’s consultation service begins with a 5-minute digital survey including a few quick questions within a confidential WeChat App. This provides a manufacturer a remote assessment of any potential cost savings.
2. Then Leadec will visit the site for a half day “health check” and provide an assessment of the cost of the site’s maintenance and a report of the potential savings.
3. Finally, the manufacturer can decide whether to continue with a “Deep Dive” analysis. This will be custom designed to provide a thorough investigation into the opportunities and develop a clear action plan to realize the savings.
